

TEMPORARY MANIFESTO III

Elements and connections

The work has many levels but no hierarchy.

Materials, information, representations, traces of process are all equal elements in the work.

All elements have a high concentration of meaning.

All elements in the work must remain distinct and identifiable.

The work has integrated blank spaces where connections can be made.

The work must actively relate to its context.

There are no superfluous parts in the work.

The work has no front or back.

Abstraction, as integral to our surroundings is the foundation of the work.

The work is a system.

Marte Eknæs, December 2010